Marc Sollazzo and his brother Bryan were busy Saturday morning with the other members of Cub Pack 361 fixing up the Town Beach at Silver Lake. The pack removed dozens of bags of trash and repaired fences and racks. Here Marc is reattaching at log to the barrier in the parking lot as Bryan steadies it.

Chief's determination pays off for DPW boss

by Jeff Nazzaro

Wilmington Department of Public Works Superintendent Bob Palmer is expected to fully recover from a heart attack suffered last Friday thanks largely to Wilmington Emergency Medical Technicians and a defibrillator the fire department acquired just last fall. Palmer is resting comfortably as of Tuesday at the Leahey Clinic in Burlington.

Lt. John Brown and his EMT crew of firefighters John McDonough, Linda Giles, Dave Woods and Steve Robbins, responded to a panicked call from Dr. Deborah Edgerly's Main Street dentist's office of a "man having trouble breathing."

EMTs used the defibrillator, described by Lt. Brown as looking "like a car battery with a handle" and as serving as the "first line of defense for a heart patient with a certain heart rhythm," to save Palmer's life.

"I'm very proud to have a crew like that," Brown said. "They are very good.

"This is a big save. [Palmer] is still alive and walking because of [the defibrillator] and the training [of Brown's crew]."

Friday's rescue marked the third time Brown's crew has had to use the heart machine.

Fire Chief Daniel Stewart, who is Palmer's nephew, worked tirelessly to generate funding for the two $5,000 machines - work that culminated in the donation by the Winchester Family Medical Center of a defibrillator and training for the fire department's EMTs in the use of the machine.

Normally firefighters get incentive pay for taking extra training. However, these funds were not available. Several firefighters took the training and opted not to take the extra pay.

Michael Donato blinked as he presented a bike to Rob McKinnon. The bike was one of six donated by the Wilmington Police Officer's Association, each with a helmet.

Bridge gets mysteriously stronger

by Jeff Nazzaro

The Massachusetts Department of Public Highways has upgraded the load limit restrictions - from the 1990-declared 8 to 12-ton limit to a present 27-ton limit - on the Route 62 bridge located near Route 38 in the center of Wilmington and Representative James Miceli has a couple of questions and a small request.

"Why was it upgraded, which engineer said it was safe...and I want a copy of that record," said Rep. Miceli, who has sent a letter stating essentially that to Highway Department Commissioner Lorinda Bettinfield.

Meanwhile, according to Miceli, "the town wants to make a few [structural] modifications [on the bridge]."

But Miceli, who said he "had to move heaven and earth to get that bridge rebuilt in 1990," first wants to find out why the upgrade occurred.

"I don't feel it should have been upgraded," he said. "That's why I'm sticking my nose into it...I want to know what's going on."

While a timetable for bridge modifications is being set, Wilmington residents and assorted passers-through can expect the repaving of Route 38 in Wilmington to commence May 15, according to Miceli.

And, with the lights at the intersection of Route 125 and Andover Street in place, the representative is focusing his traffic light energies on the Ballardvale Street-125 intersection. Lights for that location should be in place by early fall.

In further State House news of interest to the Town of Wilmington, Miceli is helping to put together a study commission to review Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority assessment methods.

Currently, Wilmington pays an assessment for the MBTA commuter rail service it receives, while communities such as Billerica, which receives MBTA service similar to Wilmington's, pay no fees.

This issue has come up several times in board of selectmen discussions led by MBTA Representative Selectman Michael McCoy.

The board and Miceli hope that other towns receiving MBTA commuter rail service will be forced to pay assessments and that that will lower Wilmington's duty.

A report on an assessments bill is still pending, Miceli said.

Along transportation lines, Miceli is still awaiting approval of the House Transportation Bond, a line-item of which will allow towns receiving MBTA service to contract with regional transit authorities - i.e. Wilmington with the Lowell Regional Transit Authority.

However, it appears unlikely that will be finalized prior to completion of the House budget, in which case Miceli said he will tack transportation funding for Wilmington onto the Supplementary Budget later this year.

Increased Chapter 90 monies and greater flexibility for municipalities to spend such funds is also anticipated.

Miceli said that Wilmington's budgetary woes, brought on by 1993's Education Reform Act, will be largely alleviated by the allocation of Chapter 90 monies.

"We're going to be in decent shape," Miceli stated.

Saturday was the day for yard work this weekend, but some people just couldn't get enough of it. Tim Quill of Salem Street, Wilmington volunteered to cut the lawn at St. Dorothy's Church

Bike rodeo Saturday

Saturday is the big day. The Kiwanis Club is holding their bicycle safety rodeo at the Swain School. Starting at 9:00 a.m. boys and girls will be able to learn the right way to prevent accidents while riding their bikes. Ninety percent of the accidents involving bicycles result from the three scenarios which will be depicted. Driveways, intersections and surprises from behind are the most prevalent accidents.

In addition to riding through the course bicycles will be inspected by mechanics from the Cycle Loft in Burlington. Helmets will be properly adjusted and helmets will be for sale. There is a limited supply available for a very discount rate. The Winchester Hospital Family Medical Center has donated money to help defray the cost of the helmets and RE/MAX Hearthstone has donated to help run the program.

Officer Robert Shelley of the Wilmington Police Department has been visiting the elementary schools all week, inviting the children to come down and ride the course.This is the first bicycle rodeo for a few years. Attendance should be brisk.

The Wilmington Kiwanis Club is only one of more than a hundred Kiwanis Clubs running bicycle rodeos on May 7th. The Kiwanis Pediatric Trauma Center in New England Medical Center in Boston has coordinated the efforts of the various clubs to get a greater impact. In fact the rodeo in Quincy will be on all of the Boston TV stations.

A local boy, Michael Donato, is the poster child for the Pediatric Trauma Center. Last September Michael rode his bicycle out of a neighbor's driveway and into the street. He was his and run over by a car. He was wearing a helmet. The helmet was crushed and broken into seven pieces. Michael received only minor cuts and lost a tooth. He is alive today because of the helmet.

Michael's parents, Joe and Kathy Donato, have been on a personal crusade since then to promote bicycle safety and helmet use. They have teamed with the Kiwanis Club and are working very hard on the Wilmington Rodeo.

Homeless in Wilmington

Matt Cantrell has a problem, a very big problem. The apartment in a private home in which he lives with his two sons has been condemned by the Wilmington Board of Health. They want to evict him.

Cantrell lives in a house on Canal Street and receives a subsidy from the state to help him afford the rent.

The trouble started a few months ago when he approached his landlord to repair a hole in the floor, but he got no response. After repeated appeals to the landlord, Cantrell says, he went to the board of health.

Cantrell assumed that since a state agency put him in the apartment, it was approved. Now the board of health comes to inspect the hole. As they inspected they found numerous problems, the largest being that there is only one entrance/exit to the apartment.

Cantrell says he informed the landlord of the problem and asked that it be fixed. He says the landlord refused.

It gets worse.

The state department of social services has been informed and is now looking into charges that he is endangering the children because of the lack of egress. Cantrell states that he may lose the boys because of this.

It continues to get worse.

Cantrell has an eviction notice that is now 60 days old. He's waiting for the sheriff to come and throw him into the street.

If he gets thrown into the street the DSS will surely take the boys – an undesirable result, and not exactly the result he sought when he first went to the board of health.

Just who is this soon to be homeless man?

Matt Cantrell grew up on High Street in Wilmington and graduated Wilmington High and Shawsheen Tech. He is the kind of man who would benefit from affordable housing, if it were available.

He's been down all the usual avenues to try to solve his dilemma. He called Jim Miceli, John Lucci, Ken Dorrance and the rest. If there is an apartment out there that he can rent, please call him at 657-7106.

It's YOUR Money

WHAT A LIFE INSURANCE TRUST CAN DO

Invest in an ordinary life insurance policy, and it's part of your estate; your heirs may be taxed heavily on its benefits. Even if your wife owns the policy, so it qualifies for the unlimited marital deduction, that big chunk goes into her estate and gets taxed.

A better solution is an irrevocable life insurance trust that removes the proceeds from your estate, reduces probate costs and can insulate the policy from creditors. Two provisos are important: the trust must be totally irrevocable; and the donor must survive for there years after the policy is transferred. (Or let the trust buy a new policy.)

The cash surrender value of the policy is a taxable gift to the trust, but setting up the trust with Crummey power enables the $10,000 annual gift tax exclusion to apply. This gives beneficiaries the right to withdraw their shares of each year's trust contribution. Ideally, they don't, and the policy gets funded. Your tax professional can guide you in protecting the trust from the generation skipping tax.

Auto Sense

WRING OUT THE SPONGE

If a driver finds that the brake pedal feels spongy upon breaking, it may be an indication of air in the hydraulic system. Repeated pumping of the brake pedal producing significantly higher pedal positions may serve to confirm this suspicion. If so, the problem can be rectified by having the auto technician "bleed" the system of air. On rare occasions, a spongy brake pedal may result from brake fluid vapor lock. This occurs due to localized boiling of the brake fluid which, in turn, results from the heat generated by forceful braking and moisture in the brake fluid. Moisture lowers the boiling point of brake fluid, which readily attracts water. Therefore, brake fluid should be replaced periodically to rid the system of moisture.

Repairing loose valves as soon as they are detected is a good example of the first rule in auto repair: early attention to problems will save you money in the long run. 1,000,000 kernels of popcorn were counted by the fourth grade at the Shawsheen school in Wilmington. The project was undertake in the darkest days of winter when someone decided a good way to teach the children the concept of one million. That someone (shall remain anonymous) vows she will never do this again. Each of the 100 children in the picture is holding a (counted) bag of 10,000 kernels of popcorn, ready for popping.

Tewksbury P.D. issues warning

The Tewksbury Police Department under the direction of Chief John Mackey would like residents, visitors and transients to Tewksbury, to be aware that the crime of breaking and entering into a motor vehicle or a smash and grab act has become more popular in our community.

The opportunity presents itself when motor vehicle owners leave items in their unattended vehicles such as shopping bags, cameras, portable radios or disc players, loose change, etc, in plain view for curious eyes to see either in the shopping malls or even in a driveway.

This opportunity helps put the desire into the mind of certain people and if the ability to act is present, the three steps of committing a crime are complete.

We ask that people help by removing at least one of the three steps of the criminal act. 1) don't leave anything in plain view (regardless of value); 2) in a car use the trunk or at least cover the items with a small blanket (alter the covered shape of golf equipment); 3) leave your driveway lights on at night, whenever possible and while shopping park under provided lighting.

Beautiful Mothers

How often God's special creatures
Our mothers act as our models, our inspirations
How we recall the little things over the years
Which brought us both smiles and tears.

We have also seen the years come and go
Which laughter and sadness brings
Mother always saying to us, never get too high or too low,
Always treasure the simple things.

Our mothers are like butterflies
They're like sweet smelling flowers
Like a beautiful rainbow in the skies
Caring for us from dawn to the late evening hours.

Our mothers are like a mountain sound
Where always solace could be found
Their soothing words like breezes slowly blowing
Raising your spirits high from spirits low.

Mothers will always be radiant, elegant flowers
Which brighten up this world of our's
Creating an environment of love for all to see
Instilling in all of us the values to living in harmony.

These multifaceted flowers so unique,
When needed delicate when necessary strong.
Glowing symbols of love and compassion complete.
How many of us have they taught right from wrong?

Mothers are special beings only God could beget.
They are fireflies shining in a golden sunset
The moon glow lighting the ways for gulls to glide
The sweet fragrance of violets at evening tide.

God created mothers as masterpieces
We can all claim as your's and mine
Their visions of beauty and grace no one can erase
We all know God had no flaws in his design.

I recall when I was young, she was my guide
She took my hand, my friend, always by my side.
She never led me astray, never let me lose my way.
Those were special never to be forgotten days.

I remember times in life the way was rough and long
Mom would pick me up and hold me tight.
Her arms gently caressing me and humming
a soothing tune.
Then I knew everything would be alright.

Because of the love and care of my mother,
I can truly sense and feel and see
Like you there is no other
Even now in Heaven, she is watching over me.

Oh! how I miss those very special times
We shared lo those many years
So memorable that even words cannot define
Stored in my memory bank of laughter and tears.

Like the lilac trees perfuming all the landscape, your smile remains
Like the hummingbird's graceful song, your smile to me is a haunting refrain.

Her departure has left a living scar,
Understandable being human as we all are
During these reflective times, I retire to a quite place
Thanking my mother silently, for being so special
Pretending we are face to face.

My mother always said her children were the jewels in her crown
Especially when family, friends were around
Her love for us was a treasure indeed
Whatever good I do, I always remember she planted the seed.

To those whose mothers are still with them
Tell your moms you love them, don't let your chances pass
You know there is only so much of life's sand in the hour glass.
We all have in our midst a most unique gem.

Pearls of wisdom about mothers we read.
Note that mothers are a very special breed.
Love and understanding their universal creed
Heaven alone knows the value of their deeds.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

A letter was intercepted by the Committee on Correspondence that Wilmington is in great danger of British troops from his Majesty's 10th Regiment of Foot seeking revenge for the incidents in Lexington and Concord.

It has been learned that the 10th Regiment of Foot plans to disrupt a nonviolent protest Saturday, May 21 at 9:30 p.m. at the Swain School. It has been further learned that they plan to take over Rotary Park setting up their headquarters and plan to harass the local citizens looking for stores of muskets and shot.

I urge the citizens of Nod and Goshen to gather on Saturday, May 21 at the Swain School in great numbers to show we will not be intimidated by these invaders. Do not fear citizens as support is coming from our local militias from as far away as Vermont. If tensions reach a peak as we fear a show of force is planned on Sunday, May 22 at 2 p.m.

Please hide any muskets or shot that you might have as you might be called on to help repel this blight on our good town.

Yours truly,
J.T.M

Dear Larz:

Your April 28 edition of the Town Crier urged the citizens not to attend a planned protest march on May 21 next . I am very surprised at your attitude regarding this protest. It will be a peaceful one! Its purpose is to inform the citizenry of the oppressive policy of taxation, without representation that King George and parliament have chosen to impose on us.

We of the Massachusetts Bay Colony feel that we should not have to pay for a war that started in Europe and was brought to America by European Powers. They have chosen to call it the French and Indian War, but it is just an extension of the Hundreds of years of European Wars. We as Colonists do not feel that Parliament has the right to tax us without our being able to properly express our God given rights of peaceful dissent. I hope that the citizenry of Wilmington will all come out to hear the voice of reason and fairness that will speak.

We will meet at the Congregational Church at 9:30 p.m. on May 21st next, and march to the town common where we will hang lanterns from a tree so that all might be able to see the Light.

A concerned citizen
Frank D. Curley

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I would like to respond to recent coverage of the April 23 Town Meeting in which I voiced my opposition to Article 23 of the Town Warrant, which would designate 11 parcels of town owned land as affordable housing lots. Unfortunately, as printed, my comments can easily be taken out of context. I would like to clarify my position.

I am not a proponent of segregation, but I am a supporter of equity. I strongly believe that all citizens should have the opportunity to own their own homes. But, as with all of the rights we are granted in this country, this freedom must be considered in the context of the impact it will have on others. In a perfect world, a house would be valued based on the structure itself, its condition, and the property on which it sits. Unfortunately, this is not a perfect world. It is a world in which values are relative and the financial worth of a home depends in a large measure on that of the homes surrounding it. Inevitably, the placement of affordable housing within an established neighborhood would lower the values of the existing homes, and homeowners who will be negatively affected have a right to express outrage.

In reality, in terms of purchasing a house, all of us have to establish financial objectives and work diligently toward attaining those goals - our reward being not only the home itself, but also the "privilege" of assuming a 30 year debt to pay for it. No individual can be expected to take such an investment lightly; nor should that individual be criticized for wanting to protect that investment.

A more equitable option in terms of establishing affordable housing opportunities would be to locate such lots in an area in which the property value of the surrounding real estate is similar. In such a scenario, neither the existing or the potential homeowners would be penalized simply for striving to achieve or maintain "The American Dream."

Respectfully,
Laura J. Berg

Dear Larz:

Congratulations to those who voted to defeat the override to reopen the Boutwell School! I truly hope that this outcome is in the best interest of the Town.

While there seems to be somewhat of a silence from the defeated side, more letters come forward extolling what appears to be an apparent sense of justice that tax dollars have been conserved and that we have not given way to rampant and needless spending once again.

However, I personally wonder if we are losing sight of the basic issue. Namely, what do our children really require of us regarding the space to study and to be nurtured in a learning environment both this year and in the following years?

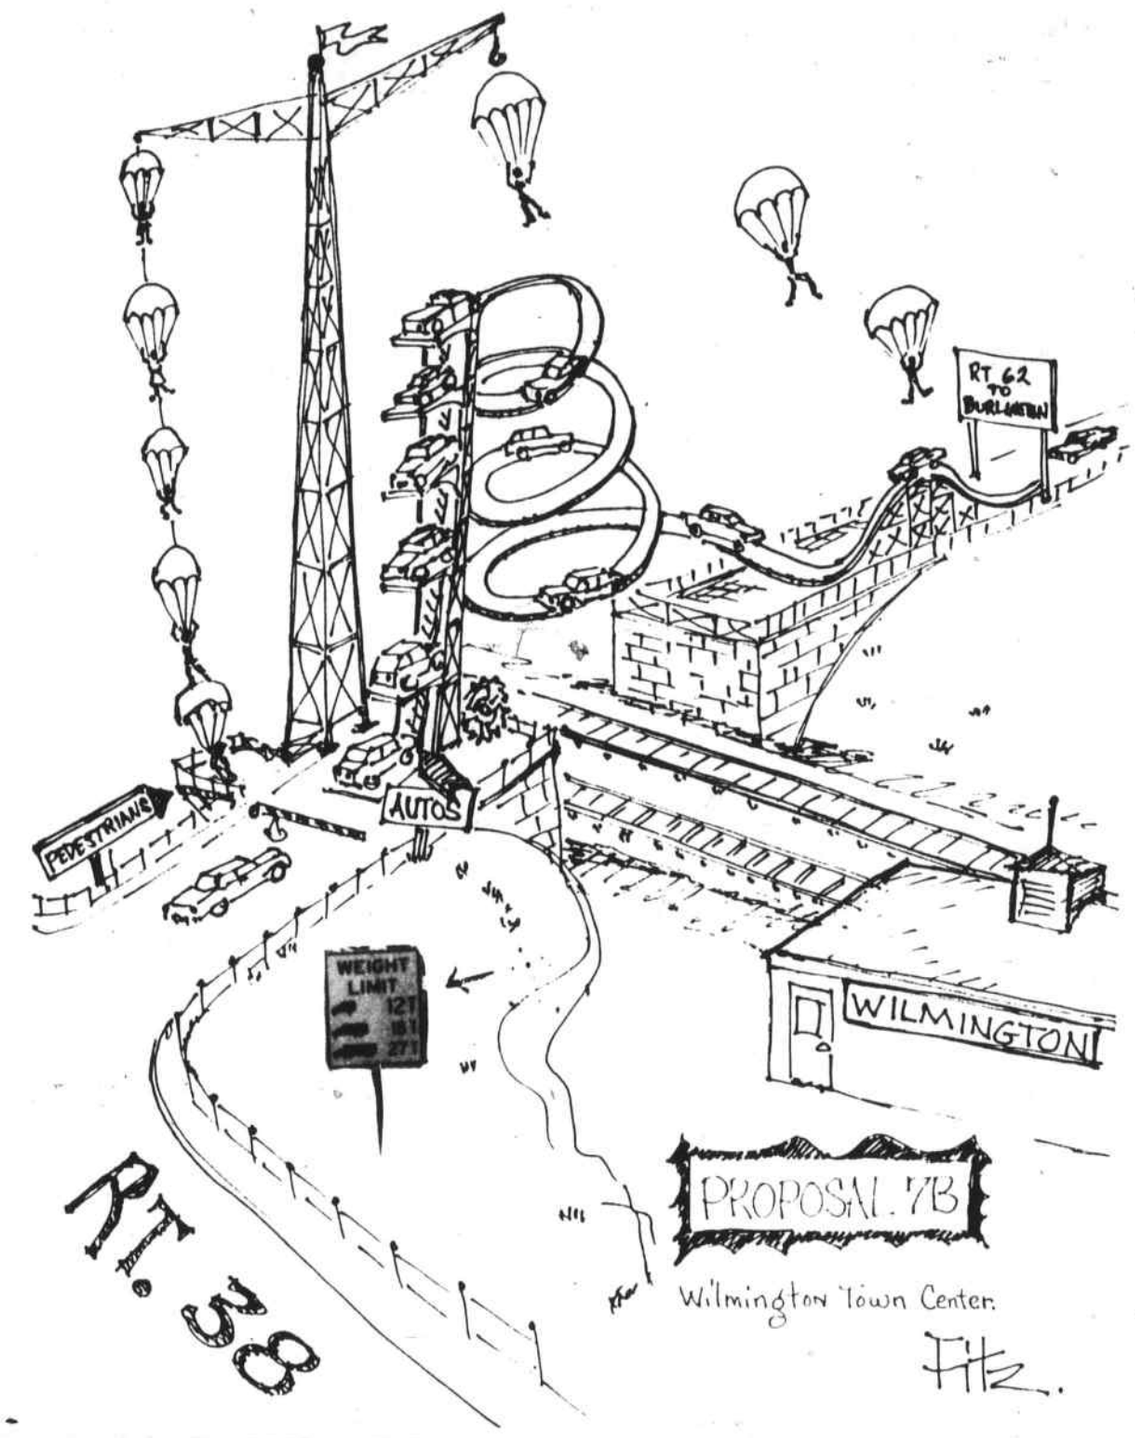

After spending sometime on the Shawsheen soccer fields, I am impressed by the young children in the town - their enthusiasm,their trust, their potential. I share with all parents in town an interest and investment in our children. Every generation has done no less. What a sad situation if we fail to look to them with hope, not only for themselves and us their parents, but for our society in general - thinking of children in terms of their unpretentiousness and capacity for joy, it is no wonder that they were once praised as the adult model for those who wish to enter the kingdom of Heaven.

So as a parent of school age children, I hope that in our adult concerns and perhaps political ways, we have not forgotten to look into the faces of these children before voting. At the same time, if parents of school age children have pursued this cause selfishly to the neglect of other needy factors of the town, then I'm sure they would want to understand and respond accordingly. However, I can't imagine that the reason of $40 a year is the real deterrent given the magnitude of sacrifice in all families or even worthy causes in the course of a year.

If this year we have not deemed the increasing number of children in classrooms worthy of our vote, then how far are we willing to let the situation deteriorate before responding? But by all means, let's not allow our children to become a source of division in our community. If anything, perhaps we can allow them to bring out the best in us adults, even if our ways of generosity are not all the same.

Vincent Gatto

Dejavu II – Coming soon to a town center near you!

Just how long will the bridge over the railroad last this time? It must have taken steroids because now, all of a sudden it is 230% stronger than it was in 1990 when it was rebuilt.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

In response to a letter to the editor in last week's Town Crier.

"Kidsplace" playground has always had two maintenance weekends per year. In the past volunteer response has been small to non-existant.

As the playground grows older it requires more maintenance, and in order to keep up this maintenance we need more volunteers. Our spring scheduled maintenance is Sunday, May 15, starting at 9 a.m. Those who would like to volunteer should take a metal rake, hammer, and an electric sander if they have one.

Hundreds of children use the playground every weekend and should be taught by example to respect this special place.

Sincerely,
Friends of Kidsplace

Dear Larz:

On April 20, on page one of the Town Crier, I found that I am not a "real" mother (since I am a mother by adoption) and that I am also unnatural (as in searching for her "natural" dad). Worse is the implication that my son, who loves his mom and dad, is unnatural also. We all hope that Jennifer finds her birthparents and that it will extend her family. However, those of us who are parents by adoption are no less parents who love, care for and raise our children as any other parents. We do include birthparents in our family orchard. This makes our family a little bit different, but no less a family and certainly not unreal and unnatural.

I remain hopeful that the Town Crier can and will develop the language in its reporting and an understanding in its writing to address family issues in ways that are positive for the entire family unit however that unit may be formed.

Very truly yours,
Caroline Playter

Dear Larz:

Having owned Wilmington Center News for the last 14 years, I take great exception to the comments made by the town manager and his assistant in the Boston Globe dated May 1. Perhaps it would benefit both gentlemen to come out of their office and take a walk along the two mile stretch that has been rezoned. Contrary to Mr. Caira's observation that there isn't much to the downtown now beyond a building and grain supply, odd bank, barber shop, and funeral parlor, he might be surprised to find an optometrist, a jewelry store, two glass companies, an auto supply store, an upholstery shop, window and door replacement store, shoe repair, flag center, window treatment store, just to name a few. All working hard to service the residents of Wilmington, all paying taxes to the town, and hopefully helping to generate a better economy for the town.

Many of these businesses like myself have worked hard for years and survived despite the lack of available parking and continual threats to tear down the existing center. And Mr. Hull might be interested to know that in the specified two mile area there are attorneys, accountants, food establishments, and various shops serving the community.

After reading the Globe, I have to wonder if these two gentlemen even know where the town center is. If having a beautiful center is so important to everyone, why not relocate the center to the area on Middlesex Avenue where the Fourth of July Headquarters now sits. A nice L shaped mall could be put in that area adjacent to the building with benches and trees. Middlesex Avenue could be closed to traffic from the corner at the end of the common to School Street. In this way townspeople could shop in the various stores and eat at any food establishments an walk freely across to the common with no worry about traffic. Certainly this area could be rezoned for this purpose. What a perfect solution! It could truly be the center that everyone seems to want and the existing businesses on Route 38 would be left to operate in Peace.

Sincerely,
Phil Corbin

Swain School named for teaching sisters

by Capt. Larz Neilson

The home in which Carolyn Swain, and her sisters Henrietta and May lived was across Lowell Street in Wilmington from the present Eastgate Plaza. It is said to have been built for the man who was the last commanding officer of the Wilmington militia, back in the final days of the American Revolution. Many men were away, serving in the U.S. Army, but it is said, there was a home guard available.

That officer's name was probably John Going (Gowing).

John Gowing was a corporal in the Wilmington Company of Capt. John Harnden during the Seige of Boston and the Battle of Bunker Hill.

His daughter, Sabra Gowen Jaquith of Ballardvale Street was probably the last person left alive in Massachusetts who could remember the events of the death of George Washington.

Sabra was interviewed by a reporter because of that fact. There are errors in that interview. The record is confusing.

After having been a participant in several campaigns John Gowing returned home to Wilmington and married Keziah Jacques in 1782. He became the commander of the Wilmington militia and constructed the home in which the Swain family lived, among whom were Charles W. Swain and his wife Henrietta Ames.

He was an ancestor of Carolyn and Henrietta Swain, both fine teachers, for whom the Swain School in Wilmington was named.

Carolyn (Carrie) was the second of three sisters born to Charles W. Swain and Henrietta Ames. The first was Mary Gowing, better known as May. She stayed home and kept house while her sisters taught. The second was Carolyn and the third Henrietta Ames Swain, both fine teachers. May was born in 1867, Carolyn in 1871 and Henrietta in 1873.

Henrietta taught the fifth grade in the old Walker School. This writer was in her class in 1920.

In the 1920s Carolyn taught in the old High School. This writer was under her instruction in the seventh and eighth grades in 1923 and 24. She taught in the first floor, to the right as one faces the school from Middlesex Avenue.

She had 47 pupils in that room, with as reported, two classes. There were six rows of seats, eight to a row, with one empty seat. Carolyn had no difficulties with her pupils.

Carolyn was the first secretary of the Gowing Society of Wilmington, the oldest family organization in this town.

Her father was on the school Committee, or had a position with a similar title. It seems each man had charge of one school. Charles was in charge of the Butters Row School, starting back about 1876.

There came a day when there was no teacher for that school. Daddy went home and got his daughter, Carolyn. She thus became a teacher when she was 15.

Carrie, as she was known at that time, did not teach forever in the Wilmington schools. She attended a Normal School for a few years, where young ladies who aspired to be school teachers learned their lessons.

Carolyn taught for a few years in a school in Middlesex County, westerly of Wilmington. After that she lived in Wilmington all her life.

In the 1920s, when the Swain sisters were teaching in Wilmington there was no bus transportation available for pupils who lived less than two miles from the school. The roads were unpaved and unoiled. Mud was very common on rainy days. Everyone walked to school, muddy or not.

There were perhaps half a dozen families in town in which "state" wards lived. Those families received a few dollars per week per child, not much. Many were good students, but some became "dropouts" as they approached the eighth grade. This writer can recall only a few such, in the classes taught by Carolyn Swain, a tribute, perhaps, to the quality of the teaching.

And, after the new high school was built, the former high school was named after the two Swain sisters.

School Committeeman Arthur Lynch thought of the idea. He asked this writer to make the motion, in the next town meeting. It was a pleasure.

Two classmates of the writer should be named, persons who studied with Carolyn in 1920.

Alice Hathaway Dillaway is now living in Waltham. Sam Bertwell, 86 years young. He still lives on Chestnut Street.

The Wilmington Chamber of Commerce welcomed another new business to town on Friday, American Insurance is now open at 25 Lowell St in the Colonial Park Mall Office Building. Pictured with the giant scissors are Sandy Murphy from the Chamber, Diane Hanson from Aetna, State Rep Maryann Brenton, Jim Murray, owner of the new insurance agency, Linda Emond with the Chamber and Lisa Sperrazza from Snappy Car Rental, who show up just to wish Jim "Good Luck."

New England Memorial Hospital honors volunteers

Helen Bourque of Wilmington was among the many volunteers recognized for their hours of work and years of commitment when New England Memorial Hospital recently observed National Volunteer Week at a special luncheon.

The hospital is fortunate to have a large dedicated corp of men and women who donate their time and talents in a wide variety of areas. Their work helps to make New England Memorial Hospital a special place of healing.

With 60 different Azaleas, you're the artist and we're your paint box.

If you were to paint a picture, you'd want as many colors to choose from as possible. Not that you'd actually use every color — but as the artist, you'd want the selection. The same is true for landscaping. And when it comes to adding color around the home and garden most people start with azaleas.

See A Full Spectrum Of Azaleas.
Today's azaleas are no longer the traditional snow whites and rose reds. Every year new varieties of incredible colors are brought to market. Subtle salmons, delicious peaches, rich burgundies and magnificent mauves, just to name a few. And since Mahoney's is the largest family of garden centers in New England, we have more of these delightful colors for you to choose from than anyone else.

Timing Is Everything.
Different varieties bloom at different times. The Mucronulatum variety will bloom in April, while Dwarf Satsukis wait until July to reveal their color. With a little advice you can interplant a mix of azaleas so that your garden is in constant, yet changing, color. The result is a new and exciting view every morning. It's easy to do. Just ask. We're here to help.

Health Is Wealth.
Each and every Mahoney's azalea is a full, healthy, hardy, beautiful addition to your home that will thrive for years. We are always improving our selection of azaleas with new, disease-resistant, extra fragrant hybrids with longer lasting flowers. They are all guaranteed pest-free.

And like everything at Mahoney's, our azaleas are value priced. You simply will not find a better plant for your money. So come into Mahoney's. Bring your questions and your imagination. With a palette of up to 60 different varieties, you can paint your landscape with just the right colors.

Wilmington House of Pizza - 325 Main St • 658-8300 • 658-5356

They're family. They're Wilmington House of Pizza! Arthur, Henry, and Lee Siannas work hard behind the counter to offer the best pizza in town with fast very friendly service.

In a town with as many restaurants serving pizza as Wilmington has, one would think that it would be hard to find one restaurant that is different, better than the rest. But there is one, and it has earned it's name: Wilmington House of Pizza. Not a franchise, they use their cooking skills and their own good taste to make the best pizza in Wilmington. Thirteen years of quality and quantity at a reasonable price

The Siannas family opened their business in 1979 and has been serving pizza, subs, grinders, spaghetti, lasagna and chicken since.

They start every morning at 9 a.m. preparing to serve from 10 am to 11 pm, a very long day! Literally hundreds of people call in and pick by their lunch and dinner from this clean little restaurant on Main St. Many stay and eat in the restaurant at the self serve tables. A favorite treat that many people order is to have their sub open-face toasted. It really brings out the flavors!

Now Wilmington House of Pizza offers free delivery of their entire menu, with a five dollar minimum order. Currently they offer deliverybetween the hours of 12 noon and 11 p.m. Call 658-5356 or 658-8300 for prompt delivery. Having hot pizza delivered is one thing, but getting the personal service and attention is another. If you would like an item, such as a lasagna, delivered ready to cook, that can be done, too.

Every day they run a special on one or two items, but you can order off the regular menu and get a bargain every time. Other places offer two pizzas for a low price, but the pizza you get just isn't that good. If you're planning on eating what gets delivered... Call Wilmington House of Pizza!

All Around Travel Update

By Peggy Lee - President/Owner

"THE VACATION PACKAGE/TOUR"

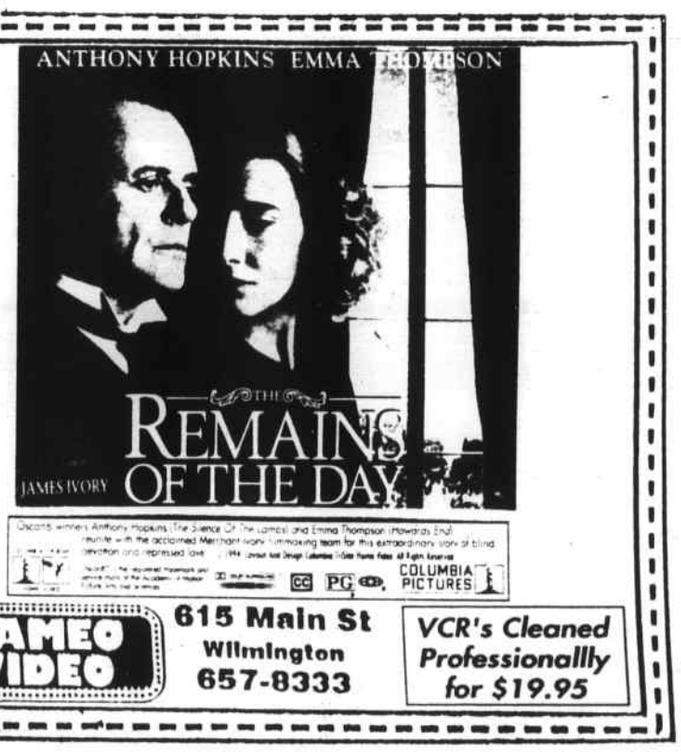

The word "tour" unfortunately conjures up a motorcoach in most people's minds. Today's tours are more flexible, allowing travelers to add or take off pieces of tours or join tours already in progress. The most common tour/package would be airfare, hotel, ground transportation - from there, the choices are almost limitless.

If you're bored by the more standard tours and vacation packages, consider - driving a rental Porsche, BMW or Mercedes on the Autobahn, overnighting in medieval castles and manor houses throughout Germany and Switzerland, exploring the French countryside on an independent self drive itinerary, belly dancing in Morocco, taking tea in a private English home, a cookout in Monument Valley, Ariz., or cruises on the Nile and snorkel in Australia.

Tour or package deals can save you hundreds of dollars by getting bulk rates on air, hotel and ground transportation getting almost anywhere in the world and offer them to you.

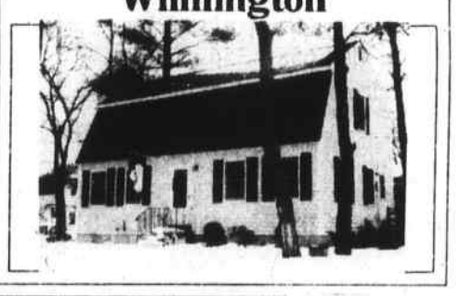

Through packages, travel agents can also obtain hard to find airline seats and hotel accommodations during peak season travel periods. Let us help you find the right vacation by visiting us at ALL AROUND TRAVEL, Station Square, 203 Jefferson Road, N. Wilmington or call us at 658-2313. Office hours are 9-5 Mon-Fri and BY APPOINTMENT.

HINT: Remember, 85% of accidents happen in the home, so we suggest you travel!

The colorful story behind Mahoney's flowering hanging baskets.

Each Spring, we fill our stores with a spectacular display of flowering hanging baskets. They range in size from 8" baskets to our jumbo 16" hanging moss gardens. Each one is superior in look and quality to the flowering baskets you'll find elsewhere. All in all we sell over 100,000 a year. To pull off this floral miracle, we start the process a full ten months earlier.

Our Story Begins...
Each summer we place orders for flowers from all over the world. We order hundreds of different varieties Many are new hybrids. These hybrids cost us a bit more, but they produce incredible plants with the newest, most vivid flowers.

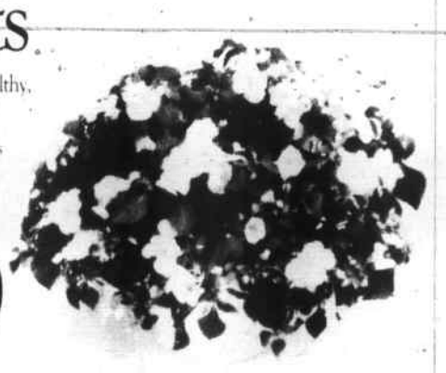

Later That Year...
Then come the truckloads of cuttings, soil, and hanging baskets — the makings of our Spring crop. We pot the cuttings ourselves using premium growing soil. At Mahoney's we use more soil per plant than most growers, to promote healthier root systems. Healthy roots support bigger flowers. Plus, more soil means they'll need less frequent watering. Come summer you'll appreciate this.

Then we nurture them in our own greenhouses — 10 acres under glass. We fertilize and hand prune each plant to assure that it will be healthy and overflowing with big vibrant flowers come Spring.

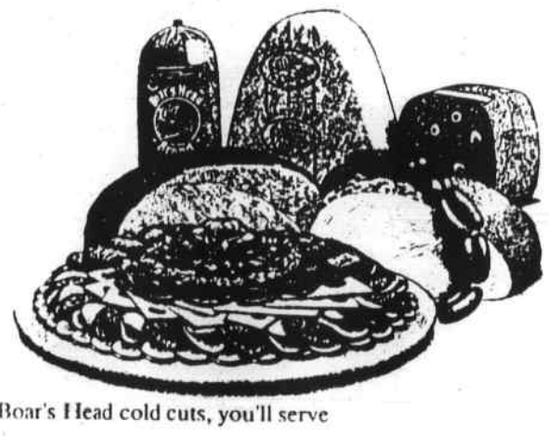

A Happy Ending.
The result is an unequaled assortment of top quality, absolutely beautiful flowering baskets.

Come and see for yourself. When you're here, ask which ones are best suited for your particular growing conditions. After ten months, we love these flowers, and love to talk about them.

Scollay Square a smash

When the Carter Lecture Committee presented "Scollay Square Revisited" at Barrows Auditorium last Thursday evening, it was very well received!

The vast majority of those who attended entered the auditorium slowly. Some were aided by canes, and walkers, most had white or graying hair (and a few were kidding) but all carried with them the hope of sharing a bit of the long-ago surrounded by contemporaries. That wish was most certainly granted.

There were still a few seats in the Barrows Auditorium last Thursday evening when the story of Scollay Square was told by David Kruh, a 37-year-old Reading resident who first heard of Boston's Scollay Square from his uncle while a resident of New York. What he heard impelled him to the authorship of a book about the section of Boston, famous many years ago.

"Always Something Doing," is the title of the book, that Mr. Kruh told the audience is now in its third printing.

In his presentation Mr. Kruh took his audience back, back, back to very early Boston and with great knowledge and dexterity, returned the group to the present and Government Center, where Scollay Square once stood.

In its early days the area was populated by Boston's elite. Merchants, lawyers, theaters, even sported the country's very first joke shop. Time passed and during World War II, Scollay Square was a lively place featuring the usual wine, music, song and "girlie" shows and was generally full to overflowing with servicemen.

Kruh had slides which he displayed on a big screen set up on the stage. There were many. Possibly among the most striking were taken during the Boston police strike of 1919. No police officers were on duty and a hostile crowd, intent on looting the area was forced to retreat by militiamen. Two pictures of this event were displayed. The first of the crowd in Scollay Square, the second was after the crowd had been pushed back by the militia, with a striking photo of one man, holding up both arms, like an Indian hailing the sunrise.

Kruh told his audience,that when he had shown that picture in a previous lecture a woman came up to him and said she had that picture on her mantle for over half a century. The man shown restraining the crowd was her father.

Both Alexander Graham Bell and Thomas Alva Edison worked their experiments in a fifth floor attic in Scollay Square. The attic had been petitioned for just such activities and years later when the building was demolished, the attic was dismantled piece, by piece and is still part of a historic display in Post Office Square.

Mr. Kruh's presentation was delightful, but the audience participation put the frosting on the cake. The voices coming out of the darkness here and there around the hall, offering the "other" name of the old Rialto Theater; some told of visits to the infamous Old Howard especially when Sally Keith was appearing there. One lady maintained that she never visited Scollay Square "but my dog did." Neighbors borrowed her dog to guard their car while they visited around the area.

Mike Banfield received on Tuesday a citation from Wilmington Police Chief Bobby Stewart for his keen observation that lead to the rapid and successful apprehension and solution of a residential housebreak.

WHS to hold Bon Voyage night

Saturday, May 7, the Wilmington Public Schools' Strings Attached Festival Orchestra will perform for a panel of judges at Springfield High School. Sixty-five violin, viola,cello and bass players will perform three works including the "Sinfonia" by Telemann, and will receive written and taped comments concerning their performance.

The high school art instructors have assembled a spectacular collection of artwork by the high school art students. These works will be on display from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Wilmington senior topics

May social

Buses for the May social will be backing into the parking lot at the senior center on Friday morning at 10:30. When seniors arrive at the center, they are asked not to park along the hill side or next to the building. It is difficult for the drivers in the buses to back a large bus into such a small space.

To prevent an accident the parking area has to be completely cleared of cars. The buses will be leaving after they are boarded. The handicapped will board first. After they are on the buses the remaining seniors will be boarded. Please remain on board when buses arrive at the restaurant and when they return to the center. This will allow the handicapped to leave first. No cars are to leave the center parking lot until the buses have left.

Seniors will be walking in the area. If a family member is picking up a senior, they are asked to park in the Swain School parking area until the buses have left the Senior Center.

Nutrition class

The first nutrition class of May will be held in the craft room Tuesday, May 10 from 9:30 a.m. The class is for both men and women. There are men exercising in the exercise class, dancing in the dance class and although this is great, it must be remembered that staying healthy and active also involves eating the right food.

Art class

Wednesday morning, May 11, at 9, the craft class will be held in the craft room; also at 9 the ceramic class will be held downstairs in the work area; at 10,the second exercise of the week will be held in the function room at noon the bag lunch and sing along program will start in the kitchen.

Older Americans Month

Saturday, May 14 from 9 a.m. to noon, as part of Older Americans Month, seniors will be able to obtain a free eye health screening at some local hospitals. About 25 hospitals throughout the state have agreed to do screenings. Check with your hospital, it may have been added to the list.

This program is sponsored by the Department of Elder Affairs, started three years ago and has been successful in spotting certain age related visual problems that could have led to permanent loss of sight if not detected early through a free screening clinic.

The May 9, 1984 edition of the Town Crier of Tewksbury noted that:

Michael Whelton was relieved of his duties on the recreation board and the Pop Warner charter was suspended.

Town Clerk Elizabeth Carey was granted a pay increase during the town meeting that would see her salary jump from $18,500 a year, to $23,420 starting July 1.

NOVENA to ST. JUDE

May the Sacred Heart of Jesus be adored, glorified, loved and preserved throughout the world now and forever. Sacred Heart of Jesus, pray for us, and St. Jude, the worker of miracles, pray for us. St. Jude, helper of the hopeless, pray for us.

Say this prayer nine times a day, by the 8th day your prayer will have been answered. This prayer has never been known to fail. Publication promised. My prayers have been answered.

A.M.M.

A Prayer to the Blessed Virgin

(Never found to fail)

O Most beautiful Flower of Mount Carmel, Fruitful Vine, Splendour of Heaven, Blessed Mother of the Son of God, Immaculate Virgin, assist me in this my necessity. O Star of the Sea, help me and show me herein you are my Mother.

O Holy Mary, Mother of God, Queen of Heaven and Earth, I humbly beseech you from the bottom of my heart, to succour me in this necessity; there are none that can withstand your power.

O, show me herein you are my Mother. O Mary, conceived without sin, pray for us who have recourse to Thee. (3 times)

Sweet Mother, I place this cause in your hands. (3 times)

Say for 3 consecutive days and publish.

God Bless

It was a Teddy Bear Tea at the Woburn Street School in Wilmington on Friday afternoon as mothers brought their children in to meet their teachers for next year. Here Gabriella is showing Principal Kate Conway her teddy bear. Kaitlyn in the background was not quite so thrilled with the whole prospect of going to school.

The May 9, 1984 edition of the Town Crier of Wilmington noted that:

Rita Wakefield of Kilby Street escaped injury when her car was hit by a train at the Glen Road crossing.

Jay Palmer submitted an addition to his plans known as Middlesex Pines, for a subdivision off Middlesex Avenue. Palmer Way was being constructed with nine houselots. Palmer was now planning 13 more lots to the south, and a street to be known as Douglas Avenue.

A scheduled town meeting contained one article, one that would rezone to general business the land behind McNamara Tire Co. An ice rink was proposed to be built on the land owned by the Ristuccia family.

A trumpeter swan that landed on Silver Lake was pictured swimming around there. Ron Fournier of Fitz Terrace shot the picture of what was a rather rare visitor to the town.

A painting " Subtle Beauty in the Bog," by Wilmington artist Andrea Peters was on exhibit in the Greek Cultural Centre in Springfield.

Skin cancer screening May 12

New England Memorial Hospital will provide a free skin cancer screening to the public Thursday, May 12 from 4 to 8 p.m. Screenings will be conducted by a physician and will take place in the hospital's Rehabilitation Services Department on the sub-ground level. Privacy and confidentiality are assured. Comfortable, loose clothing is recommended. Pre-registration is required through the Health Promotions Department by calling 979-7057.

Skin cancer is the most common type of cancer. When detected early however, most types of skin cancer can be cured.

Any unusual skin condition or change in an existing skin condition should be checked by a physician. A doctor should be seen if a mole changes size, shape or color; if there is an unusual growth on the skin; a person's skin changes color in certain spots; or there is a sore that will not heal.Only a physician can determine for sure whether an abnormal growth is benign, precancerous, or cancerous.

Cape Ann vote next week

by James Pote

On Monday, May ninth, the town of Wilmington will find out whether or not WHS will abandon the MVC and start up new rivalries in the Cape Ann League.

A few weeks ago, all of the principals in the Cape Ann league took a vote that was largely in Wilmington's favor, as it was 12 votes to one chalked up for Wilmington. Next Monday, the athletic directors of each Cape Ann team will meet and cast their final votes.

However there are many positives and negatives if WHS is allowed into this league. After talking to many of the coaches and players there is an upbeat feeling that overall Wilmington will have the chance to compete every day they go out to play.

A little reality check is called for here. What about the extra traveling. For some they might not mind, but for others a 7:30 game in Triton and coming home around 11 or twelve o'clock might not seem to appealing. As for the annual thanksgiving football game, that too is still up in the air. There is a slight possibility that it could happen but since Lawrence dropped out who is Lowell going to play. Also, Tewksbury will get less points for beating a division three team than a division two team.

If this does happen it could be a start in a new direction for WHS. Assuming that the kids believe that they have a chance to compete in every game there will be greater numbers coming out for every sport. Who knows? However there probably won't be too many track players coming out since the Cape Ann doesn't allow the pole vault or the javelin- there has been talk also of banning the discus and the hurdles.

Great strides for Track Teams

by James Pote

Both the Wilmington Boys and Girls Track team have improved greatly. On Monday afternoon, both teams lost to Lawrence but the first place finishes are pilling up.

The Boys lost by a score of 96-48. First place winners were: Wayne Griggs in the hurdles and the intermediate hurdles. Joe Martinello in the 220 (time of 24.3), Justin Yentile in the two mile and the 4 by 440 relay team of Garrett Whittemore, Steve Jansen, Seug Won Kim and Henry Grise also came away with a first place finish.

Second place finishes belong to Martinello and Kim in the 220 and 100 meters, respectively. Tim Peterson recieved a second place finish in the 880, while Griggs scored with a 19.1 effort on the long jump.

Third place finishes went to Joel Santorelli (Hurdles and Pole Vault), Pat Rufo (mile) and John McInnis (Discus).

As for the girls they fell by a score of 75-60. The Lady Wildcats racked up eight first place finishes.

Denise Langone took first in the javelin with an impressive throw of 94.4 (pr) and she also took first in the 440. Also recieving two first place finishes were Amanda Zaya in the 100 yard dash (time of 13.7 sec.) and in the 220 yard dash (29 sec.).

Jill Murphy took first in the 100 meter hurdles and the team of Laurie Johnson, Cherri Lawrence, Denise Langone and Lisa Timulty all took first in the relay run.

Second place finishes were Timulty (Javelin), Cherice Threscher (Discus), Lawrence (both the triple and high jump), Colleen Stokes (2 mile) and Kerri Cassella (880).

Laurie Johnson and Lynette Silva took thirds in the long jump and the shotput, respectively.

Two champions lock up in extra innings

by James Pote

Another impressive week has gone by for the WHS Varsity Softball team. This was no ordinary week for the girls.

"This past week has been a lot of fun. The weekend games (verses Amesbury and Bishop Fenwick) were a load of fun. The girls showed how to play competitive softball and how to have fun doing so. I thought that was very important," said Head coach Paul Lyman.

After beating up on Merrimack Valley teams Billerica , Dracut and Chelmsford by scores of 8-3, 6-0, and 6-1, respectively, the girls traveled to Provincetown this past weekend to take on two very good teams. It was a chance for Lyman to face his two daughters Christy and Shannon in the duel between the division one and two champs from last year in Bishop Fenwick and the Wildcats. A game not many people will forget.

"The game (against Fenwick) was probably one of the most exciting high school softball games I have ever seen", continued Lyman.

Against Fenwick, Wilmington had an 1-0 edge throughout the whole game. Wilmington's pitcher Adrienne Fay was shining throughout the first six innings against her old mates. When the last inning came, Fenwick was able to tie the score to send the game into extra innings.

After a scoreless eighth inning, the Wildcats found themselves in trouble in the ninth as Fenwick scored four unanswered runs to take a comfortable 5-1 lead. Wilmington found out that they too could rally.

Thirdbaseman Stacey Gillis lead Wilmington's comeback as she nailed a two run homerun over the 15 foot fence. The Wildcats managed to score three runs in the bottom half of the inning to fall short by a score of 5-4.

In the first game that was played on Saturday, Wilmington played host to Amesbury in a rematch of last year's quarterfinals of the State Tournament. Last year, Wilmington edged them by a score of 5-2 and this time they nearly repeated that same performance as they took Amesbury 5-1, behind the combined pitching of Fay and junior Lindsay Currier.

Wilmington's offense was lead by the two run homerun that landed approximately thirty feet over the fence by secondbaseman Nancy Pote.

"Both (Pote and Gillis) homeruns were real good hits. Amesbury is a real strong team with good pitching. It was a good win for us", said Lyman.

Before the split over the weekend, the girls had tough games against Billerica and Dracut, with the latter a Friday night game. Against Billerica centerfielder Leanne Harris roped a triple and had four RBI's to continue to lead her team in batting average verses MVC opponents (.458) with a 8-3 victory.

Pitcher Adrienne Fay lowered her earned run average to under 1.50 for the season with her 6-0 shutout over Dracut at Aprile Field. This was her second shutout of the year, thus far as it was a 1-0 pitchers dual against the Middies Carrie Ladebouche. Wilmington broke it open in the sixth inning when the Dracut defense started to fall apart.

Currently, the girls are a top of the Merrimack Valley small school conference with their 7-0 record. There are many reasons why they hope to stay at that position for a chance for a repeat. Pitching, timely hitting, speed, defense and coaching. All together a fantastic match.

Thus far the pitching has been there with Fay leading the way with her eight overall wins. The hitting definetly is there. Including their games over the weekend, Erin Falzone leads the way with her .400 batting average. Nancy Pote is second with her .385 average and she also has an impressive team leading 15 RBI's in nine games which includes two homeruns.

Freshmen right fielder Kelly O'Donnell is adding a solid punch with her .368 average. She is followed by Harris(.367), Fay(.323), and the Southmayd sisters Lisa (.310) and Laurie (.300) to round off an impressive seven players in the .300 club.

If this keeps up there is a lot of hope for the repeat.

McManus lives out ultimate dream

by James Pote

Matt McManus, a WHS graduate of 1992, finally got a chance to live up to his wildest dreams as he pitched at Fenway Park last Wednesday afternoon.

McManus is currently a red-shirted freshmen at Northeastern University where his baseball team took part in the annual Beanpot Tournament.

In his first start of the year, McManus got the win in the championship game versus Boston University by a score of 10-3. He pitched seven plus very strong innings were he yielded just three hits, two runs with only one earned while striking out eight BU batters.

"It was great. It was just unbelievable. I never thought that I would get the chance to pitch at Fenway. It was just unbelievable," said the excited right handed pitcher.

It was the first Northeastern Beanpot championship in nearly forty years. Currently, the team is 22-7 after starting out cold with a 2-5 record.

This could be a sign of good things to come.

Pote's chatter-box

Sports Commentary

by James Pote

There are a few things on my mind that I would like to toss around.

Last Friday my friend and I went to the seventh and deciding Bruins-Canadiens playoff game. Since we were early we decided to hang around in front of the gate which was going to let us in.

As we were roaming around, there were four scalpers who asked us if we needed tickets for the game. Sure, there are scalpers at every sporting event, but when are there scalpers asking people right in front of two cops. Yes, two of our very own Boston Police Officers.

These gentlemen would stand there talking and joking with the officers while they were asking every person that walked by if they needed or were selling any tickets. Interesting, huh! You haven't heard the best part yet.

A few years ago, another friend of mine was in front of Fenway Park trying to get rid of his seats for that particular game. He finally got rid of them as he sold them for $18 a pice when they went for $16 a piece.

Even though he could be considered a scalper, he only made a four dollar profit. However, the Bruins scalpers were getting $150 dollars per ticket when the face value was at $45 dollars. That's Boston for ya.

Another thing that strikes me funny is Boxing. Is it me or is Boxing fixed. I think so. Projected guess- Lennox Lewis will beat Mike Moorer only to lose to Mike Tyson the moment he gets out of jail.

Are the baseballs that are being used in professional baseball really juiced? Good question- answer absolutely not. Year after year they are made by the same company and are made exactly the same. Ever think that the pitching is going very much down hill and the batters are getting so much bigger and better?

Finally I really can't picture getting excited to watch a WHS and Georgetown (if Wilmington is allowed into the Cape Ann League) athletic event. I just can't get excited of the idea of WHS Athletics moving into the Cape Ann League.

Young Boys Tennis team looking good

by James Pote

After graduating nine seniors from last year's team and losing one of their better players to another sport, this year's WHS Boys Tennis team is coming along very quickly. Their 4-4 record with only two seniors to show for it, definetly calls for an upbeat for a few years to come.

"I'm very happy with the way things have gone thus far. If we could only have turned it up one more notch (Monday's match verse Chelmsford) we could have won another," said head coach Mike Tammarro.

In the close match against the Lions, second singles player Marc Trinchera had to go to a tie breaker where he lost. Along with him, third singles player Ryan Swayze also came very close as he won his first match only to lose his last two in a very solid effort.

The doubles team of Brian McFeeters and Dan KIng were a solid mix together as they came away with a win.

Here is another sign of another WHS team that is on the uprise.

Baseball team looking for more intensity

by James Pote

Even though they have yet to win a game this season, the WHS Varsity baseball team lost three tough games last week.

With a runner on third base with one out in the bottom of the sixth inning, behind by a run the Wildcats had a chance to tie it up with a fly ball that was lifted out to leftfield against first place Lawrence.

However, with the strong arm of the leftfielder, Lawrence pulled off a double play and the hopes of the Wildcats taking one away from them quickly diminished.

Pitcher Dave Dussualt, once again pitched a great game. The mental approach however, is still not up to par yet.

"There has been a few games in which I thought we should have come out of there as winners. The only thing I'm disappointed is that it seems the kids do not come to games ready to play. They have to be more intensed," said head coach Dick Scanlon.

On Friday afternoon, the bats were finally heated but the gloves were ice cold as they fell to Chelmsford by a score of 12-7 after having the lead four different times.

Infielders Dave Fleming and Herbie Mason started to get their bats going, but unfortunatley that was not enough for the Wildcats.

Monday afternoon was another close game where the Wildcats again let one go through their tip of their fingers. Dave Dussualt again pitched a solid game as they fell to Greater Lowell in non-league action by a score of 5-3.

The Wildcats really seemed to close things up as they rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh, but once again they were not able to get their first win of the season.

ARE YOU PROTECTED?

REDUCE FLOOR FALL DANGER

QUESTION: I understand that a great number of older people injure themselves by slipping and falling on the floor. How can this danger be reduced?

ANSWER: One of the prime offenders is the "flying carpet" known as the scatter rug. All scatter rugs should be fastened down. Tacks will work and there are a number of paints, sprays, powders and padding on the market to provide non-skid backing.

Your best bet is a reinforced foam rubber pad placed beneath the carpet. also, a well buffed waxed floor is surprisingly safe. It is the slightly wet, underpolished floor that is slippery and unsafe.

"FLYING CARPETS" (scatter rugs) are one of the major causes of floor fall accidents.

Fleming meets with parents

by James Pote

On Monday night, Paul Fleming, principal of Wilmington High School met with a number of parents and coaches. This could be a start of a new beginning.

"This is a start. It's a beginning. We (both Fleming and Athletic Director Jim Gillis who was absent from the meeting due to sickness) would like the parents to get involved as much as they can with WHS athletics," said Fleming.

Monday's meeting was an open agenda. Fleming had no set plan whatsoever, and he wanted parents input. Such items that were discussed were money with concerns of fundraising, the athletic budget itself, the idea of the Cape Ann league, and many other ideas and concerns that were tossed about.

Some parents/coaches gave ideas of giving a certain percentage of what money is raised by one particular sport to that individual sport rather than the overall sports picture. Another idea was what about lights-is it ever going to happen?

Fleming is hoping that these ideas can translate into something as a whole not individual. He wants all groups of parents, coaches, athletes and adminstartors to blend into one whole in order for WHS to create an "Umbrella support group".

If the parents get involved as much as they said they would this could be a uprising lift for WHS Athletics.

Under twelve spring soccer

April 9

Starting off the spring soccer season the Wilmington U-12 A team tied the Malden Cosmos 1-1. Kevin Forgett scored the first goal assisted by Jimmy Rourke and Martin DeAngelo.

Playing aggressively Darren Aciero, Willie Kent and Mike Halas did well advancing the ball. Jeff Cannon, Jason Frongillo and AJ Mitzan played position ball. Danny Keating, Timmy Riley and Eric Swiezynski were dynamic on defense.

April 16

The second game of the season saw the U-12 A team come from behind to tie Waltham 1-1. In a game challenged by the weather, the team was able to keep the ball in the opposition's end but unable to capitalize.

In the second half Martin DeAngelo took a pass and Darren Aciero played a powerful offensive game. Joey Kane was effective driving the ball downfield. For the second week Craig Irwin was outstanding in goal.

April 23

The U-12 A team faced off against Melrose and brought home their first win. From the first play the boys showed an impressive offense. Keeping most of the playing time in Melrose's end enabled Kevin Forgett to score his second goal this season.

Good passing and effective ball handling aided in the team's victory. In the second half Joey Kane beat the goalie to put the team ahead to stay at 2-0. Melrose tried to regroup but the defensive moves of the Wilmington team held them in check.

April 30

Wilmington U-12 A team met the powerhouse from Winchester and walked away with the 1-0 victory. In a playbook game the team challenged its opponent and executed its plays. In the first half the boys dribbled for control moving the ball into scoring position but unable to put in a goal.

Darren Aciero throughout the game trapped the ball and regained control from Winchester. Riley, Swiezynski and Keating in their fullback positions held a strong defense. Going into the second half 0-0 Wilmington's attitude made the difference.

Kevin Forgett scored assisted by Joey Kane breaking the tie. Not letting down, the offense pushed harder, tackling the ball making Winchester give up possession. Throw-ins helped position the play at both ends of the field, assuring control by Wilmington.

Mary McGrath looks determined to leap and win in the low hurdles event on Saturday's TMHS Girls State Relays meet.

Assault weapon ban is a mistake

by Bill Conlon

The U.S. Congress (a group which I'm sorry to say garners none of my trust or admiration) will soon vote on a measure to outlaw a number of so-called "assault weapons" and to ban all magazines capable of holding more than 10 rounds. The measure, by my reckoning, is stupid.

I don't know about you, but I'll be closely watching the outcome of this vote. If my Congressman votes to take away my guns, I shall vote to put him out of a job in November. Notice is hereby given, Mr. Meehan.

A ban on "assault weapons" -- if an assault weapon can be defined at all -- is a dangerous precedent. Almost every gun in use today can trace its heritage to a military ancestor, so do we ban all guns? Some would love to see such a ban, but many don't.

Take the .45 Colt semiautomatic pistol. The Colt Model 1911A was developed after the Phillipine Insurrection, when our troops learned, the hard way, that the standard-issue .38 revolver would not knock down attacking Moro tribesmen. Studies by the Army showed that a fat, slow slug did severe body damage, and the .45 Colt has been a favorite U.S. sidearm ever since. Does that make the Colt pistol an assault weapon? It has a military lineage!

The accurate and dependable bolt-action hunting rifles in use today can trace their roots back to the '03-A3 Springfield, or the Mauser, both of which saw action in World War I. Modern U.S. military snipers prefer the bolt-action Remington Model 700. Should all bolt rifles therefore be classified as "weapons of war?" If not today, will a classification of that sort be made in the future?

If getting past the definition stage is tough, the arguments we hear out of Congress recently are even more difficult to swallow.

Assault weapons are designed for the sole purpose of killing people, they say. Sorry, but any gun, if used with violent intent, will kill people. And it may come as a surprise, but a military rifle is not designed to kill.

Military tacticians know that it is far more advantageous to wound a man than to kill him, which is why military firearms shoot "hard-ball" ammuntion, or a full metal jacketed. A dead soldier ties up only one other man -- to bury him -- while a wounded man ties up two stretcher bearers, a driver and an ambulance attendant, and the medical staff that it takes to patch him up. Hard-ball ammo often passes right through the body, unless the slug hits a bone, leaving a nasty wound but not a sure kill.

The National Rifle Association (an assembly of villains and lunatics, if you believe the liberal rantings) has put forth facts and figures about the use of assault weapons in crime, and the bottom line is that assault rifles simply aren't used very much in the commission of crime.

Military firearms account for only a tiny fraction of annual firearms deaths in the U.S., so why is the Congress so fired up about banning something that isn't a problem?

The cold fact is that the anti-gun types in Washington feel like they've found an issue which nobody could oppose. Weapons of war! Guns that kill! Who could ever oppose a ban on these horrible instruments?

I do. And you should too.

The proposed assault weapon ban is the first time that the government is trying to say what model of guns you can and can't own. "Bad" guns and "good" guns. There are laws in place controlling "fully-automatic" guns, silencers are outlawed, and the length of gun barrels is regulated, so we already know good from bad.

But if the anti-gun lobby gets one model outlawed, it's a matter of time before they get them all. Next might come a ban on all semiautomatics, then a curb on pistols small enough to conceal, then a ban on any caliber larger than .22. And still the streets will be no safer than they are today.

Banning weapons that are used in just a handful of killings every year is not the solution. Politically it may sound good, but I guarantee that the assault weapon ban will have absolutely no impact on crime, if passed. Only the good guys suffer, again.

Hopefully Congress will realize, in this election year, that those of us who don't break laws are sick and tired of being forced to watch every move made by Congress, to make sure that we don't become criminals overnight. The bad guys are causing the problems, not us.

If I don't break the law, who the heck cares if I own a .22 rifle, a 7.62 mm rifle or an 81 mm mortar? Or a tactical nuke for that matter? I'm not causing trouble, so who cares what I keep in my closet? Punish bad guys, enforce the existing laws, and leave the good guys alone!

Of course, the law-abiding in our society will (grudgingly) obey any stupid law that Congress imposes on us, which makes us the good guys.

But that won't stop us from letting Congress hear our opinion when the November election rolls around.

Think long and hard about your vote, Mister Meehan.

--- Tackle Box ---

"Tewksbury Bait & Tackle" has now opened, at 1475 Main (next to the Taste of China, aka the old Hula Lau). Dan Sdankus, who works at an auto body shop in Wilmington, has given up his fishing time to open the store and said the shop is dedicated to fishing, period. No archery or guns, just fishing and ice fishing. Dan's dad, Ed Sdankus, will run the store in the mornings, so he's the guy to see when you need bait for a morning trip. (They open at 6 a.m.)

Dan said he'll be receiving lots of inventory this week, to go with his hot-selling bait, and hopes to up to speed in a big way real soon.

Welcome aboard, Dan! Oh, and I love that sign, by Reed Harvey.

Lynnfield Spotlighters present

'A musical for all ages'

By PHYLLIS NISSEN

"Acting is my revenge on Algebra," says Bob Hawes of Woburn, who plays King Septimus in the upcoming Lynnfield Spotlighters production of "Once Upon A Mattress."

"A fun musical for all ages," the play will debut at the Lynnfield Middle School on Friday, May 13th, as luck would have it, and is loosely based on the fable "The Princess and the Pea."

"Mattress" offers to enchant audiences with delightful tunes, wicked queens, passionate princes, and royal wizards - but the real magic lies in the cast behind the characters, a group of area residents who hail from more than a dozen local towns, including Melrose, Lynnfield, Stoneham, Woburn, Medford, Wakefield, and Wilmington.

Hawes teaches math at several community colleges and has done several shows with the Colonial Chorus. His theater experience encompasses writing, directing, designing, lighting, building, and working backstage; and he's played everyone from Abner Dillon in "42nd Street" to Erronius in "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" to the starkeeper in "Carousel."

"Mattress" marks his first show with the Spotlighters. "I may teach math by day," he says, "but I act up in every class."

Ellen O'Neill of Medford plays Lady Merrill.

Rebekah Jean Cintolo, otherwise known as Nightingale, is a seventh grader at the Lynnfield Middle School where she is a high honors student, participating in the math team, concert choir, and drama. Her hobbies include soccer, basketball, softball, swimming, singing, acting, piano, art, and writing. Her acting experiences include the roles of the nightingale in Hans Christian Anderson's "The Nightingale"; Sara Crew, the little princess in "The Little Princess"; and a grotesque in the "Masque of Beauty and the Beast" in which she also danced and narrated.

Choreographer June Wulff of Wakefield has choreographed a number of other plays for New England Life ("Guys and Dolls," "Hello Dolly," etc.) the Colonial Chorus ("Mame," "Annie," and "How to Succeed in Business....") and the Burlington Players ("Tom Foolery"). She received her training through the Jeanette Neil Dancers. "Thanks go to my daughter Elise for helping me with the steps!" she says.

The Wizard Cardamon is David Breen from Melrose, a drama-award winning graduate of the Landmark School in Pride's Crossing. Now a student at Middlesex Community College, Breen is working toward a degree in communications. He also works during the summer with children with learning disabilities at the Carroll School. He sings, plays the guitar, enjoys karaoke and played Noah Claypole in the Spotlighters' fall production of "Oliver."

A member of Clown Alley, Diane Joyce of Woburn plays Lady Diane. She has appeared with the Colonial Chorus in "Oliver," "Fiddler on the Roof," "The King and I," and "42nd Street"; and has entertained as Dots the Clown.

Jessica Anna Cintolo, a seventh grader at Lynnfield Middle School, is the "Mattress" pantomime queen. A high honors student, Cintolo participates in the math team, concert choir and drama. Her hobbies and activities include soccer, basketball, softball, swimming, singing, acting, piano, writing, and long-distance running. Her acting experience includes roles in "The Nightingale," "The Little Princess" and the "Masque of Beauty and the Beast."

Diana Doyle of Stoneham plays the lead role of Lady Larken. A soprano soloist at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross in Boston, Doyle is a recent graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music and Tufts University. Her professional acting experience includes three years of summer stock in Vermont where she played Mabel in "The Pirates of Penzance," Yum Yum in "The Mikado," and Tuptim in "The King and I." Last Christmas, she performed in children's theater at the Courtyard Playhouse in New York City.

As Lady Maybelle, Eleanor O'Dea of Woburn, in "her first theater role ever," is really cooking. Formerly an accounting

About The Towns
by Phyllis Nissen

You don't even need a reservation

All trails lead to Stoneham

The Greater Lowell Indian Cultural Association will make camp this weekend at the Stone Zoo in Stoneham for the zoo's first-ever powwow.

Led by Chief Frank and Beverly Greenhaigh, more than 300 Native Americans will pitch their teepees across from the zoo in the lot; and activities will take place there (a lot of activities) and zoo-side on Saturday, May 7th, from noon to 4:30 p.m. and from 6:30 p.m. to 9 p.m.; and on Sunday the 8th, from noon to 5 p.m.

The event will feature authentic Native American crafts, games, dances, and costumes. We hear - unless we got our signals crossed - that you don't even need a reservation.

For more information, contact the zoo's chief friend, Bee Russo, at (617) 438-7459 - and if you know of any sources of used touch-tone phones or IBM PCs and printers, send them her way.

Can you adopt this agency?

In celebration of its 20th anniversary, Wide Horizons for Children, Inc. of Waltham and the world - formerly International Adoptions, Inc. of Newton - is looking for a new home.

From its beginnings in the '70s with three social workers and one office manager, Wide Horizons now has a staff of 40 and works with adoptive parents in six states.

The agency places children from about 18 countries including the United States - and recently placed its 4,000th child - Christofer Joon Willis - in Melrose.

If you have any ideas about new horizons for Wide Horizons, please contact executive director Vicki Peterson at (617)894-5330.

Even if you don't live by the lake, drop in

The Friends of Lake Quannapowitt is hosting its 4th annual spring cleanup on Saturday, May 7th from 9 a.m. until noon.

With an eye to shrubs and high grass not yet in full growth and toward the many Wakefield 350th anniversary events spanning May and June, the friends have scheduled this year's cleanup earlier in the spring than usual.

Participants should meet at the newly renovated bandstand to sign in, select a work area and pick up trash bags. All local organizations and citizens who feel a strong urge to clean up Quannapowitt's shores are invited to participate. For more information, call Janine Fabiano Coyne at (617) 245-0631.

Also, on Saturday, the 7th, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., the Americal Civic Center will be hosting a Wakefield Community Wellness Fair, co-sponsored by the Wakefield Business and Professional Women's Organization, the Wakefield Health Advisory Committee and the Melrose-Wakefield Hospital.

What is Anthony up to now?

Anthony Rauseo of Lynnfield (formerly of Yogels Cafe in Woburn) is in heaven, so to speak. As the new and first business-financial manager of the Campion Center - a community of retired priests, complete with hospital and hotel - on the former Weston College Campus, Rauseo is in charge of spending someone else's money.

Rauseo's wife Susan and three-and-a-half year old daughter Jennifer are also counting ... their blessings: because the Campion Center is open only 24 hours a day, seven days a week, the new job is less demanding than the previous eight-day-a-week position at Yogels, and "father" Rauseo is now able to spend more time with his family.

By the way, Jennifer would probably love to clean a lake, attend a wellness fair, and check out a powwow.

"About The Towns" covers recent events in the 13-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper for up-to-date information about your city or town. "Once upon a Mattress" supervisor, she is now busy working with husband, Rich on their new venture, Church Street Publishing. She hopes to study to become a professional chef and eventually an innkeeper.

The "Dauntless" Rich Luhr, also of Woburn, has plenty of experience. He is involved in Church Street Publishing, a marketing communications and publishing consulting practice and has recently played Lane the Butler in the Burlington Players production of the "Importance of Being Earnest," Simon in "Our Town" and a triple role in the "Boys Next Door." "The other high school stuff," he says, "is ancient history."

Elyce Swenson of Lynnfield plays Lady Elyce.

Alan Dellascio of Wilmington is in charge of set construction.

"Tickets are $10 for adults and $8 for senior citizens and students 16 and under," says Assistant Producer Judy Valentine of Lynnfield. Valentine earned her "assistant's" stripes as Bozo the Clown's assistant on the Bozo television show, way back when.

For tickets, call (508) 535-3082 or buy them at the door: performances of "Once Upon A Mattress" will take place at 8 p.m. on Friday, May 13th and Saturday, May 14th as well as at 2 p.m. on Saturday, the 14th, at the Lynnfield Middle School on Main Street.

Don't miss "Mattress" once upon a time in Lynnfield. You're bound to have a good time - and to know someone in the cast.

WHICH ONES ARE THE TWINS? Appearing May 13th and 14th in "Once Upon A Mattress" produced by the Lynnfield Spotlighters and appearing here, ready to go, are Jessica Cintolo, Rebekah Cintolo, Jamie Thomann and Shaun LeBlanc. Call (508) 535-3082 for ticket information.

State has HIV testing hotline

Massachusetts residents with questions about the HIV antibodies test are invited to bring them to the attention of a new, toll-free hotline, to be administered by the Family Planning Council of Western Massachusets, a Northampton-based agency.

The HIV Antibodies Counseling and Testing Hotline has been staffed by trained, bilingual (Spanish/ English) and bicultural counselors who are able to answer caller's queries about what behaviors put them at risk for HIV infection, how to assess their need for a test, and where they can go to get tested.

Counselors have the addresses, phone numbers and hours for all of the over 60 state-supported HIV Counseling and Testing sites in the state. The hotline number is 1-800-750-2016 and it will take calls 52 hours each week. TTY services for the hearing impaired will soon be in place.

"We're very excited about this new service," says Elizabeth Rivera-Rivas, the Hotline Coordinator. "We know that a lot of people have questions about HIV antibodies testing, but they don't know where to bring them. The Hotline will be a good first step." Rivera-Rivas notes that a lot of people end up utilizing the state's anonymous HIV testing program because it's the only place they know of where they can get counseling and support when they have questions. She pointed out that, for many people, the Hotline is a better place to bring their concerns.

The HIV antibodies test confirms the presence or absence of the Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV), the virus which is believed to cause AIDS. Not everyone who has tested positive for HIV has developed AIDS. By the close of 1993, public health officials estimated that some 24,000 people in Massachusetts have been infected with HIV. This represents one in every 200 residents.

"Celebration for Special People"

Gourmet food, cakes, cookies and time to explore the Children's Museum. Over 200 people are expected to attend the Massachusetts Foundation for Children's (MFC) 2nd annual "Celebration for Special People" on Saturday, May 14. This year Olsten Kimberly Quality Care joins the Foundation in hosting this dazzling gala event to raise funds improve the lives of thousands of disabled children across the state.

The event will begin with dinner at a restaurant chosen by participants from a list featuring 20 of Boston area's finest eateries. After dinner, attendees gather at the Children's Museum for dessert, coffee and entertainment. This reception will feature guest speakers, a children's art exhibit and jazz music provided by the Rob Jaret Quartet.

Speakers for the evening include Ruby Machiz, an art therapist at the Edna Stein Academy, who will talk about how the power of art in education benefits children with a wide range of disabilities. A life perspective will be offered by Paul Kahn, an established visual artist from Newton, who has overcome his own disability to become an artist, writer, film producer and therapist.

The art exhibit will showcase the artistic accomplishments of the children from the MFC member schools, whose works have won awards, been published in newspapers and exhibited at the Wang Center for the Performing Arts.

Poster size mural, which MFC member school children have created especially for this evening, will be awarded as door prizes at the close of the festivities. Winners will have the opportunity to select the prize of their choice.

The Massachusetts Foundation for Children is a non-profit federation of 26 schools and programs that serve over 5,000 special needs children across the state.

Tickets this year are $50 per person and must be purchased before May 6. For reservations call (617) 648-6207.

School Notes
by Phyllis Nissen

Is it a date?

Mark your calendars...in pencil

As it stands now, Reading students will begin school on August 31 next year, Burlington students on September 1st, and Melrose students on September 8th with all kinds of variations in neighboring towns.

Reading students will begin their 1994-95 school year on Wednesday, August 31; teachers will report for duty on the 30th. This year, school began in Reading on September 1st and was scheduled to end on June 21, including three snow days. Instead, it will end on June 24th, pending School Committee approval.

The Reading School Committee recently adopted a calendar for the next four years, featuring a pre-Labor Day opening and the traditional December, February and April vacations as well as teacher in-service and early release days.

The Burlington School Committee has voted unanimously to begin school on September 1, 1994; hold one spring vacation from March 13th to 17th; and end on June 9, 1995, barring any snow days - although the Burlington teacher's union seems to be against the move to a one-week vacation.

The Burlington School Committee vote was based on the results of a School Department survey which drew a 45 percent response from parents, 52 percent of whom said yes to an earlier start; 67 percent of whom opted for the one-week spring vacation; and 79 percent of whom felt that parent-teacher conferences should be held before or after school rather than during entire days throughout the school year.

Burlington teachers, on the other hand, with 65 percent of the staff responding, showed 58 percent in favor of an early start and 17 percent in favor of a one-week vacation. If the February and April vacations had remained, Burlington schools would have ended on June 14th next year, barring any snow days.

Because the school calendar vote is done on a yearly basis, the Burlington School Committee sees next year as a particularly timely experiment: the days saved at the end of the school year in 1995 will be beneficial because at that point the proposed school expansion plan could be ready to enter its building phase - if it passes May Town Meeting.

Randolph and Haverhill have adopted calendars similar to Burlington's.

Reading's 1995-96 calendar shows an August 30th start date and a June 19th end date, with three snow days built in. Teachers have 188 scheduled work days and students, 184 scheduled school days.

The Melrose School Committee has removed Good Friday from its list of upcoming school vacation days, citing the fact that the school system observes no other solely religious days. Staff members may take the day as a personal day and students will receive an excused absence. School will end next year in Melrose on June 16th if it doesn't snow.

Mark your calendars in pencil as communities decide on their final 1994-95 school calendars, and reality begins to sink in.

Doing nothing is not enough

The school choice June 1st deadline is fast approaching, at which time all Massachusetts school systems, as part of ed' reform, must take a stand on the issue of whether or not to participate in school choice.

If they do not want to be part of school choice, they must opt out by June 1st; otherwise, they will automatically be part of the school choice plan through which sending communities reimburse receiving communities according to state mandates.

At this point, Malden, Lynnfield and Saugus have already voted not to take part in school choice; and the Reading Teachers Association, Massachusetts Community Coalition for Public Education, and Communities Organized for Public Education have also come out against it. Wakefield's school choice hearing is scheduled for May 10th

In this case, not to decide is to decide.

If you'd like to read about your favorite school, student or teacher in "School Notes," please send school newsletters and other relevant information to Phyllis Nissen, "School Notes," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867.

"Tobacco Grant" goes to Winchester Hospital unit

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts recently enacted a law that levies an additional 23-cent tax on a pack of cigarettes; those monies, in turn, are to be used for programs aimed at educating citizens on the dangers of smoking and helping them to quit.

The Bedford and Lexington boards of health recently were awarded a $65,000 grant from these tobacco funds to launch a three-pronged program of no-smoking education, regulations and policy development and enforcement in their communities. They have turned to Winchester Hospital to facilitate the program.

"The goal of the program is to make the communities smoke-free," says Sue Powers, RN, BS, manager of Health Education at Winchester Hospital. She explains how the program works:

"The Bedford and Lexington boards of health have subcontracted with Winchester Hospital to facilitate the grant they were awarded from the state. We have hired a full-time employee to be that facilitator, she is Ann Marie Mikols from Swampscott

"There are three components to the program," Powers continues. "The first is education, getting the word out about the dangers of smoking. The second is the creation of regulations and policies about smoking, such as ordinances that prohibit smoking in public places. And the third component is enforcement of those regulations and policies."

Lexington already has no-smoking policies in place, Powers notes, while Mikols will work with the Bedford Board of Health to develop regulations for that community. She also will work with the Bedford Department of Recreation and School Department on no-smoking education programs.

Winchester Hospital will provide smoking cessation programs, substance abuse-free weekend promotions and a presence at local community events such as Town Days.

"We have six people on our staff who are trained facilitators in smoking cessation," says Powers. "This tobacco grant program gives us yet another opportunity to offer smoking cessation programs to the community."

The hospital also is providing secretarial support for the grant program.

The original one-year grant for the Bedford-Lexington program is funded through September 1994; it was recently extended and funded for an additional year, through September 1995.

HOW CLOSE ARE WE TO A CURE FOR CANCER?

While advances in medical research have given thousands of Americans with cancer more hope than ever, we still haven't been able to solve the most basic problem of transportation.
But you can help. And we hope you will.
Through the American Cancer Society's Road to Recovery program, you can help by volunteering to drive a cancer patient to and from a treatment facility. If you have a car, safe driving skills, and can drive as little as one morning or afternoon a month, you can help give someone the most precious of all gifts: the chance for a fuller life.
For more information, call your American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345. Call today. And help us drive cancer from the face of the earth.

ANIMAL OF THE MONTH

The llama

friends of STONE ZOO

The llama, a member of the camel family, comes from the Andes Mountains of South America, including parts of Bolivia, Chile and Argentina. Llamas have been domesticated for centuries and no longer occur in the wild, although their relatives, the guanaco and vicuna, do.

The Incas so revered the llama that only royalty could eat it or wear garments made from its wool or hide. Llamas are still the primary pack animals of South America and also provide wool, food, and fertilizer there. In the U.S., llamas are raised for their wool and as pack and companion animals. Because they are gentle and quiet, llamas are sometimes taken to visit nursing homes and hospitals. In western states, male llamas are used to guard sheep from coyotes.

Like cattle and deer, llamas have multiple stomachs and chew their cud. They have a hard upper gum instead of upper teeth in front and use their flexible upper lip with the lower incisors to grasp foliage. Unlike most herbivores, llamas have well-developed canine teeth, which male llamas use in territorial battles. Spitting, usually related to food disputes, is rarely directed at people unless the llama has been mistreated.

Wild relatives of llamas live in herds of one adult male, a harem of females, and various young. Domestic llamas are also kept in groups, and it is said that a single llama may become lonely and refuse to eat.

The llama has many special adaptations for its high, cold, mountainous habitat. Its coat has two layers: long, coarse outer hair and soft, fine underwool. This coat protects the llama from the cold, but oddly enough, is not really waterproof because it lacks the lanolin of other wools. The circulatory system of a llama is adapted for the thin air of high altitudes because the hemoglobin factor in its blood has an unusually well-developed ability to absorb oxygen.

Llamas have slender, but extremely strong, legs. Their feet have two toes, with a broad, callous, and elastic pad beneath them. The deep cleft between the toes allows them to be spread widely on dangerous mountain paths, and the leather pad does less damage to trails than the hoofs of horses and burros.

Beginning April 30th, Llama Strolls are offered at Stone Zoo and Franklin Park Zoo. Accompanied by llamas and zoo staff members, strolls are two-hour treks starting at 7:30 a.m. or 5:30 p.m. Participants will learn about eco-friendly packing, prepare and enjoy a Latin American meal, hear recorded Andean music, listen to Andean folk tales, and examine Incan artifacts.

The Stone Zoo strolls meander through the picturesque woods by Spot Pond.

Llama Strolls are by advance reservation only, for ages six through adult. Children under 12 must by accompanied by an adult. A Llama Stroll cost $20 per participant, or $18 per person for groups over 15. (CZC members pay only $12 per person.)

This cost includes a meal and all activities. There will be a maximum of 20 strollers per trek. To reserve a Llama Stroll, call (617) 442-2002, Ext. 124.

"Penpals"

Russians want contact with U.S.

The organization "SAPE" (formerly "The Soviet-American Penfriend Exchange" in New York) is looking for 100,000 Americans between the ages of 10 and 40 who would like to strike up a penpal friendship with someone in the former Soviet Union. Since its inception in 1989, SAPE has linked up more than 20,000 pairs of penpals. News of that success has spread via world-of-mouth all across the former Soviet republics. This has resulted in an avalanche of mail - more than 100,000 letters - which has completely overwhelmed the small group of volunteers who operate SAPE.

Penpals are matched up on the basis of age, gender, choice of male or female penpal and, in the case of the small percentage who do not know English, common language. Because of the wide variety of mail, SAPE is usually able to fulfill requests for penpals from a specific geographic area. Letters have arrived from every major city in the former USSR, as well as from remote Siberian villages.

Despite the recent backlash against western-style reforms in Russia, the majority of young people remain avid fans of American culture, especially American music, films and TV shows. In the Baltic nations, residents are often able to pick up TV broadcasts from Scandinavia to such shows as Beverly Hills 90210, and Saved By The Bell. In addition, The MTV Top 20 Countdown is broadcast weekly by one of Russia's national TV stations.

Individuals, class, scout groups or religious youth groups who would like to participate in this program should send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: SAPE - Dept. N, 140 Midvale Ave., #408, Los Angeles, CA 90024-5498.

A seminar to deal with pornography

Due to the abundance of pornography to which men are constantly exposed in magazines, videos as well as advertising and movies, many men have become urgent and desperate, rather than relaxed, trusting and caring in regards to their own sexual needs as well as in their relationships with women.

In pornography, advertising and entertainment, the principal message is that only the small range of women promoted as "beautiful" are desirable. Excitement about appearance displaces excitement about inherent humanity, playfulness, caring and sharing.

For many men, the use of pornography and sexualized fantasies has become like a recreational drug, a way to change moods in the face of anything unpleasant. Rarely a day goes by, or even a few hours, without considerable energy going toward fantasies.

What started as preoccupation leads to routines and rituals, then to compulsive sexual behavior, and their powerlessness to stop. This despair can then be obscured by further sexual preoccupation.

In this one-day seminar led by Robert Wald, LICSW and James P. Gulla, ALM, men will have the chance to explore the pros and cons of their use of pornography.

Entitled Freeing Intimacy from Pornography, the seminar will help participants to reclaim their innate capacity for real sexual pleasure. The seminar will be held on Saturday, June 18th. A brochure can be obtained by calling 1-800-516-5656.

Reporting those reckless teen drivers to parents

Parents of teenage drivers have always worried when their kids hit the road without supervision. A new 800 number service decreases that worry by letting motorists tell parents how their kids are driving.

1-800-MY PARENTs is a new program that allows parents to put a bumper sticker on their teen's car that asks "How's My Driving?" and displays the 1-800-MY PAREN number . so motorists can call to report on the teen's driving, identifying the vehicle by the license plate number.

SafeTeen, the company set up to run the service, charges an annual fee of $19.95 for the bumper sticker and registration. Everytime someone calls about a program member's vehicle, SafeTeen mails the member a report of the comments that were made about the driver of the vehicle.

Holder said the ultimate goal of 1-800-MY PARENTs is to encourage safer driving among teenagers. Currently, the leading cause of death for 15 to 24-year-olds is motor vehicle accidents.

"If having this sticker on the car will slow teenagers down because they know they could be reported, that would be wonderful," Holder said. "We'd like to help kids stay alive."

Calendar From S-5

As adults, people may minimize the effects of these childhood experiences. However, chances are their lives are still affected by them. Issues that typically remain unresolved are intimacy, trust, control, anger, shame and relationships problems.

Different roles are learned in childhood that often are carried inappropriately into adult life. Through a combination of handouts, tapes, group exercises and sharing of life experience, this group will help clarify the past and its continuing effect on present day living.

This "Growing up in a Dysfunctional Family" group will meet for 12 weeks on Wednesdays from 7 to 8:30 p.m., beginning May 18. It will be led by Karl Peters, an LICSW social worker, whose specialty is substance abuse and adult children of alcoholics and who himself grew up with an alcoholic parent.

To pre-register for any of this group, call Dr. Carol Golub at the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc. at (508) 658-9889 by Monday, May 16. As a non-profit agency fees are negotiated on an individual basis depending upon insurance, community and income.

MOTHER

We set a day aside each year and call it Mother's Day.
We bring her cards or flowers that all have this to day.
We love you Mom with all our heart
you mean a lot to us.
You sacrifice your time each day
all without a fuss.
You gave us strength
when we were weak.
You taught us
when and how to speak.
You gave us hope
when all seemed lost.
You gave your best
at any cost.
I thank God when ere I pray and not just on Mother's Day.
That in His arms He will embrace my wonderful Mother will all His grace.

Salem State and Northern Essex join forces

Students applying to Northern Essex Community College can now be accepted at Salem State College at the same time as part of a joint admissions agreement recently signed by Salem State and the Commonwealth's 15 community colleges.

Students wishing to take advantage of this new program must enroll in one of Northern Essex's transfer programs, including liberal arts, business, science, engineering, computer sciences, early childhood education, paralegal studies or nursing.

After earning an associate degree, with a grade point average of at least 2.5, they are guaranteed admission to an appropriate major, providing they have completed a comparable transfer program at Northern Essex.

"We are delighted with this new agreement," said John R. Dimitry, president of Northern Essex. "Our students have been transferring very successfully to Salem State and other public and private colleges and universities for years, but this joint agreement makes the process a whole lot easier and the transition smoother and more efficient."

In the past, students would have applied to Salem State after completing an associate degree at Northern Essex. Now they can pursue their studies at Northern Essex confident that they will transfer to Salem State.

For more information on the joint admissions agreement, call the Northern Essex Admissions office at (508) 374-3600.

"With Honors" "Backbeat"

"With Honors" Starring Joe Pesci Brendan Fraser, Moira Kelly, Patrick Dempsey, Josh Hamilton. Directed by Alek Keshishian. Written by William Mastrosimone. Produced by Paula Weinstein, Amy Robinson. Rated PG-13.

Crammed with an above average dose of good will and sentimentality, "With Honors" tries desperately to pass muster, but never does graduate to the level of sophisticated comedy. It has its moments, it just hasn't any depth.

One dark and snowy night, a Harvard senior (Brendan Fraser) ventures out into a snowstorm to photocopy the only copy of his thesis, which represents a year of his life. Slipping in the white stuff, Fraser drops the paper down a grate and watches it land in a library basement. There it is scooped up by Joe Pesci, playing a squatter who has found a palace in the library boiler room. For each page of the paper Pesci promises to return, he expects one favor from Fraser.

The script never digs too deeply into human frailty or the situation of homelessness. It presents us with two opposites, a rigid, bright student and a streetwise derelict. After several sitcom-like scenes, these two are best buddies. But these characters are too photogenically pleasant to feel like the real thing. This is especially true of Pesci. He's part pavement prophet, part schizophrenic, part drunkard. Nasty-looking one moment, he's clean and cuddly the net. Sorry, life is never that simple.

Fraser's roommates, with the exception of the ever-emoting Patrick Dempsey, are more believable, Moira Kelly is the realist in love with Fraser and Josh Hamilton the manic premed student not happy about sharing his digs with a bum. Fraser, though not exactly electrifying, is at least sincere and slightly sexy, which is all that was required.

The major disappointment here is Pesci, who is more a caricature of a derelict than the real thing. A little grit could have gone a long way in this flick. More problematic than the performances is the script, which never takes a sharp turn but follows a straight, predictable path.

Pesci is so endearing that Fraser's barriers melt. The students all become better people after lessons from Pesci's school of hard knocks. Fraser, seeking a surrogate dad, bonds with Pesci, who needs a surrogate son. Then Pesci clutches his chest and starts to cough. Even the class dunce could predict the teary-eyed turn the plot is about to follow.

Still, there is nothing out and out terrible about this flick, just terribly Hollywood. More imagination, less formula, might have pushed this flick into our long term memory, A C-plus average is quite acceptable, but such a level of entertainment is just as easily found on television.

MONTY (Brendan Fraser) listens as Simon Wilder (Joe Pesci) uses the Constitution to make a point at Harvard in Warner Bros.' poignant drama, "With Honors."

"Backbeat" Starring Stephen Dorff, Sheryl Lee, Ian Hart. Directed by Iain Softley. Screenplay by Softley, Michael Thomas, Stephen Ward. Produced by Finola Dwyer, Stephen Woolley. Rated R.

If you think you've seen enough Beatles movies to last a lifetime, think again, as "Backbeat" offers a perspective far removed from the glorified nostalgia audiences have come to expect.

This movie looks at the Beatles before they were the Beatles, when they were five and not four. Set mostly in Germany in 1960, it captures the tense urgency of a band about to be bigger than is good for them.

The group, which then included Pete Best as drummer and Stu Sutcliffe on bass, made their professional debut in a ratty strip joint in Hamburg. The lads worked "eight day's a week" pumping out their rock 'n' roll to patrons more interested in bumps and grinds than riffs or drum solos. It was in one of these dreary nightclubs that the Beatles learned to pop pills and were introduced to Astrid Kirchherr, a photographer who changed the band.

You can hear the music as it evolves and watch their style take shape and see the prickliness between Paul McCartney and John Lennon. At the film's center is the relationship between Sutcliffe and Lennon, and Sutcliffe's romance with the strikingly attractive Astrid, played with a knowing calm by Sheryl Lee, best known as Laura Palmer on "Twin Peaks."

Sutcliffe, portrayed by Stephen Dorff, was a talented artist who packed away his paint pots to dabble in music. But painting was his lifeblood, no matter how much his best mate, John Lennon, urged him to stay with the band. When Sutcliffe fell into Astrid's sophisticated arms, he left the band for a brief lifetime of painting in Hamburg.

Director Iain Softley captures the sexual urgency of those embryonic days and doesn't back off from the jealousy so plainly displayed by Lennon when he is replaced by Astrid in Stu's affections. Yes, there is certainly a whiff of latent homosexuality there, but because it is not obvious it gives Lennon so much more depth.

Shot in color, you almost think of it as a black and white film, so stark are some of the compositions. It's moody and layered with an emotional texture that nearly catches you off guard. Sutcliffe, who died so young, is played by Dorff with a slight passivity that never dulls his charisma. The spotlight, however, is on Ian Hart's Lennon. His sharp performance gives us a young man is ambitious, brooding, nasty, brilliant and certainly tortured. The performance by Lee, Hart and Dorff make for a riveting back story to the main event that soon after became The Beatles.

It's too bad "Backbeat" didn't run a little longer. At just over 90 minutes, it could easily have handled more story, especially Astrid's interaction with the band. It was she, after all, who created the Beatles' "look" and apparently was quite close to the band after Sutcliffe's death. As Softley focused our attention on the sexual attraction between Astrid and Stu, he somewhat lost their connection to the band. Still, there is enough passion on the screen to illuminate one of pop culture's major turning points.

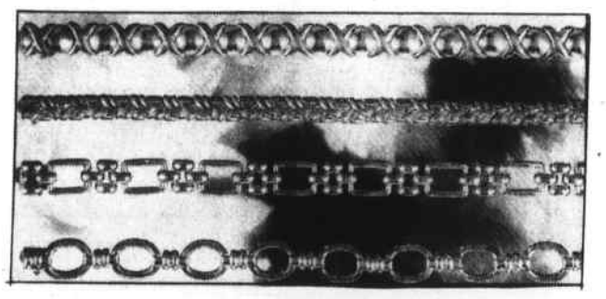

Short Takes

Serial Mom is a goof on pop culture and modern-day stress, dished up by director John Waters with a spoonful of campiness. Kathleen Turner seems the perfect suburban housewife, but is actually filled with such rage that she is venting on her neighbors, one hack at a time. Twisted, funny and very clever, Waters skewers American family life and all those values we've learned about from television. Rated R.  1/2

The Favor is a sparkly comedy about friendship and affairs of the hart. Harley Jane Kozak is happily married to cute Bill Pullman, but fanticizes about ex-flame Ken Wahl. Kozak enlists best bud Elizabeth Perkins to check out that hunky Wahl, unleashing a torrent of emotions that overwhelm everyone in Kozak's path. The ending is a confusion of slapstick, but this comedy has enough witty appeal to overcome a bit of silliness. Rated R. ***

Bad Girls may have a terrible title, but this all-femme oater provides a quick entertainment fix. Madeleine Stowe is a savvy madam on the lam with three of her "girls:" Mary Stuart Masterson, Andie MacDowell, and Drew Barrymore. The actresses keep you hooked, but the script quickly digs itself into a deep trench, relying on kidnappings and coincidence. Rated R.

Carmine "Cowboy" Zaccaria was Company D. Cook in the U.S. Air Force in World War II. He received recently a medal from the Japanese government with the following citation. "Japan is proud to send you this simulated Gold Medal. The food you cooked in WW II incapacitated more GI's than our military forces. Banzai!"

Oliver Frazier said that a tour guide in England told the tourists, "This castle has stood for over 800 years. Not one stone has been touched and absolutely nothing has been replaced. Any comments?" "Yes," replied George Guyette, "It sounds like the landlord I have in the states."

Paul King said to me, "Chipper, I'm convinced that old fisherman never die, they just 'smell' that way."... My Cousin Marie Connors of Saugus is an accomplished classical pianist. Marie left this note for her handsome husband Gary, "Dear Gary, I have gone 'Chopin' for Spring clothes. I have a long 'Lisz' so don't expect me 'Bach' in a 'Minuet'!"

Bobby Reed told me that his brother Ronald is a 'great' baseball player. Then he added, "But, I'm better!" Folks, humility is a rare but wonderful virtue... Las Vegas imports people who think they are going to be winners and exports people who know they are losers.

My Uncle John Shea was the hiring foreman on the piers and docks of South Boston and Charlestown. He made no bones about it, he would only consider hiring Irishmen for his longshoremen crew. One morning a strong looking young lad approached him for a job. "Are you Irish?" Uncle John's booming voice echoed across the bay to East Boston. "No," the young man timidly replied, "but my grandmother is!" "Very Good," Uncle John shouted, "Tell your grandmother to report for work on Pier 4 at 5 in the morning!"

Later that afternoon Uncle John and his assistant Danny O'Leary went to pay their respects to Larry Gould, who had passed away. They walked through City Square Charlestown and stopped into the 'Big Potato' for some liquid tranquilizers to help steady their nerves. Then they walked up Chestnut Street and up the stairs of a triple decker. They walked into the second floor parlor and knelt down at the piano. "Gee!" Danny exclaimed, "I didn't know that Larry had such a wonderful set of teeth." "Yeah," Uncle John replied, "but, look, there's a bad one here and there."

Well the lady of the house came in and shooed them out and up the stairs they went into the right flat. They said a few prayers then Danny said to the widow, "He look's good." "Why wouldn't he," Mrs. Gould replied. "He just came home for Florida last week!" Uncle John and Danny then joined the people in the kitchen, helping themselves to drinks and sandwiches. They did the same for the next two days then Mrs. Gould asked them, "I know you were friends of my husband. What do you think I should do, have him buried or cremated?" Uncle John and Danny O'Leary conferred for a minute then Uncle John told Mrs. Gould, "Why don't you have him stuffed and keep this party going?"

I asked my friend Harry Wong, "Does Chinese acupuncture really work?" "Of course it does!" he explained. "Have you ever seen a porcupine with arthritis?"... My Cousin Joseph Aloisi said to his son Mark, "You don't know which side your bread is buttered on!" Mark smiled and replied, "What difference does it make Dad. I'm going to eat both sides anyway!"

Sara Sue Pennell art exhibition in Reading

The Reading Art Association will present Sara Sue Pennell, a well-known portrait painter, on Wednesday, May 11 at 8 p.m. at the First Congregational Church, middle side door, Sanborn Street, Reading.

The public is invited and welcomed to this demonstration. A donation of $3 is suggested for non-members.

Sara Sue Pennell, who works in pastel, oil and miniature, states: "My painting started before I can remember, with my grandmother, who also studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. I have always been interested in painting people."

Having married and raised a family, during which time she continued to paint and teach, in 1987 Mrs. Pennell went back to studying portrait painting for three years with Janet Monafo.

She is now well established as a portrait painter, is a "Copley Artist" and a member of the Pastel Society of America among other art associations. She has exhibited locally and in New York City, and has won numerous awards.
